Writing Race: Black Expatriates in France

Tuesday, October 4, 19h
Reid Hall, Grande Salle

Marcellus Blount, Columbia Professor of English and Comparative Literature, will moderate a panel on black expatriate writers featuring American University Professors of Comparative Literature and English, Alice Craven and William Dow.

Robert O'Meally, Professor of Comparative Literature and English at Columbia University, will begin the evening by speaking about "The Color Line" exhibit at le Musée Quai Branly and his collaboration with its curator, Daniel Soutif.